My House

A poetic pop-up book

My house does not look like much. On the street, it is not the steadiest, nor the nicest, nor the most quiet. There is a field of wheat on ground level, monkeys and musicians upstairs, sand dunes and paper birds in the attic, and even a lighthouse on the roof...

Séverine Vidal and Adolie Day

A fancy pop-up house full of surprises, dreams and creativity, where everything becomes possible.
The Queen often has her head in the clouds: when she is daydreaming, she usually thinks about all the foreign lands she has never been to before. From dawn to dusk, she dreams about matriochkas from Russia, a ukulele from Tahiti, lions from Tanzania and even ninjas from Japan...

A book made of 8 wonderful animated dresses to discover traditional objects, designs and costumes from Russia, India, Tanzania, Japan, Tahiti, Mexico and the Arctic lands.

Do You Think…?

Do you think that animals can understand us? When do you think people start being old? What do you think Santa Claus does during the 364 other days of a year?

In life, there are so many questions to ask, for which everybody has a different answer. Here is a selection of them, to learn a bit more about your kids, parents or even yourself. This book is meant to be read with the whole family, from 4 years old and beyond. 35 funny, ludicrous and sometimes even philosophical questions to get into a discussion on serious topics filled with fun and laughs!
